SUPPORTING RADA

The Royal Academy of Dramatic Art (RADA) is a world renowned centre of excellence for acting and technical training. Established in 1904, RADA has forged an outstanding reputation for innovative, rigorous teaching alongside entrusted relationships with the creative industries into which our graduates will venture.

Our mission is to enable future generations of actors, technicians and theatre practitioners to achieve their potential as artists, craftspeople and leaders within their specialist industry. The names of RADA alumni fill the credits of theatre, television and film productions worldwide and such accolades are testament to the intensive training RADA delivers.

“ To give the most talented young people we can find the finest training possible. ”

SIR HERBERT BEERBOHM TREE, RADA FOUNDER

We remain resolute in our commitment to awarding places at RADA on merit of talent, regardless of financial circumstances. Every year, over half our full time undergraduate students will be given bursary support and we also fundraise to ensure that we can help those who unexpectedly experience financial hardship.

RADA has a long tradition of being supported by those who have been touched by our training. If you enjoy student productions at the Academy or the endeavours of our graduates on stage and screen around the world, we hope you will pledge your support to RADA and safeguard our training for many generations to come.

THE RICHARD ATTENBOROUGH THEATRE

It was RADA's great privilege to have trained Richard Attenborough as an actor and shared over seventy years with him as a member of Council, Chairman and President. He can justly be described as the founding father of modern RADA.

In 2014, Lord Attenborough gave his name to the ambitious building project which will transform our central London premises, modernising and upgrading the buildings, providing much-needed student accommodation and expanding library facilities for students and the community. At the heart of this endeavour is the redesign of our largest theatre into a state-of-the-art facility which we intend to name the Richard Attenborough Theatre.

Please help us towards our £1m target by donating your support to the Richard Attenborough Theatre Fund so that the achievements of one remarkable man may be shared by many more generations of RADA students.

'RADA is a remarkable institution. It has been the birthplace of theatrical talent for over 100 years. As President I am proud of our history and achievements. To safeguard our excellence in training we must forge ahead, regenerating and modernising RADA to keep pace with the needs of future generations.'

LEGACY GIVING

Throughout our history RADA has been gifted bequests by those who share our commitment to the dramatic arts. By leaving one third of all his play royalties George Bernard Shaw has continued to support generations of RADA students.

Legacy giving on any scale can be a tax effective means of making a lasting commitment. Reductions in inheritance tax are applied to any estate giving at least 10% of taxable income to charity. Legacy supporters of RADA may choose to dedicate their bequest to a particular strand of training or give in support of helping future RADA students to flourish.

RADA Legacy Supporters receive:

- Invitation to Remember a Charity Week reception at RADA
- The end of year RADA Review, Supporters' Newsletters and Dates For Your Diary publications sent by post
- Invitation to RADA Summer Party
- Opportunity to purchase tickets for RADA Guest Nights

RADA Guest Nights celebrate productions staged each term by final year BA Acting and Technical students. These special evenings are hosted by members of the RADA team, alongside students, graduates and visiting creatives working on the productions.

RADA Guest Night tickets are £25 per person and include:

- Pre-show reception
- Ticket to RADA Production
- Aftershow discussion or post-show reception with Student Company
